

Circuits

Samuel Yeom

While this building is appealing, its circuits constantly threaten to overload it. You find a supremely confusing note, and you barely make out the following:

We should allow states to decide whether they want to legalize sports betting. (2018)

We should allow international versions of textbooks to be resold in the United States. (2013)

We should require the federal government to recognize gay marriages. (2013)

We should give tax credits to people who buy insurance from federally run Obamacare exchanges. (2015)

We should prohibit people with reckless misdemeanor domestic violence convictions to own guns. (2016)

We should allow the Peace Cross to stay. (2019)
