FIXING THE LASERS

When the thieves broke into this facility, the first line of defense they faced was the invisible laser grid. They somehow managed to deactivate the lasers, so we'd like to get them up and running again to run some tests. It's a bit... embarrassing to admit, but we've lost the blueprints for the laser grid. There was something really important about where the beams crossed...

For now, just figure out exactly what it looked like.
